FOREWORD

Throughout the years Williston Senior High School students have served as vital links in time: first, linking student to student; then, connecting student with school, and now, as the linking force which binds the school and community as integral entities. Each link goes to make one great invincible chain and each plays its part in making Williston and Wilmington great.

The class of '66 wishes to pay honor to the students, teachers, and administration of Williston who link us to the finer aspects of a "wonderful Wilmington"—a city with an outstanding heritage created by an outstanding citizenry.

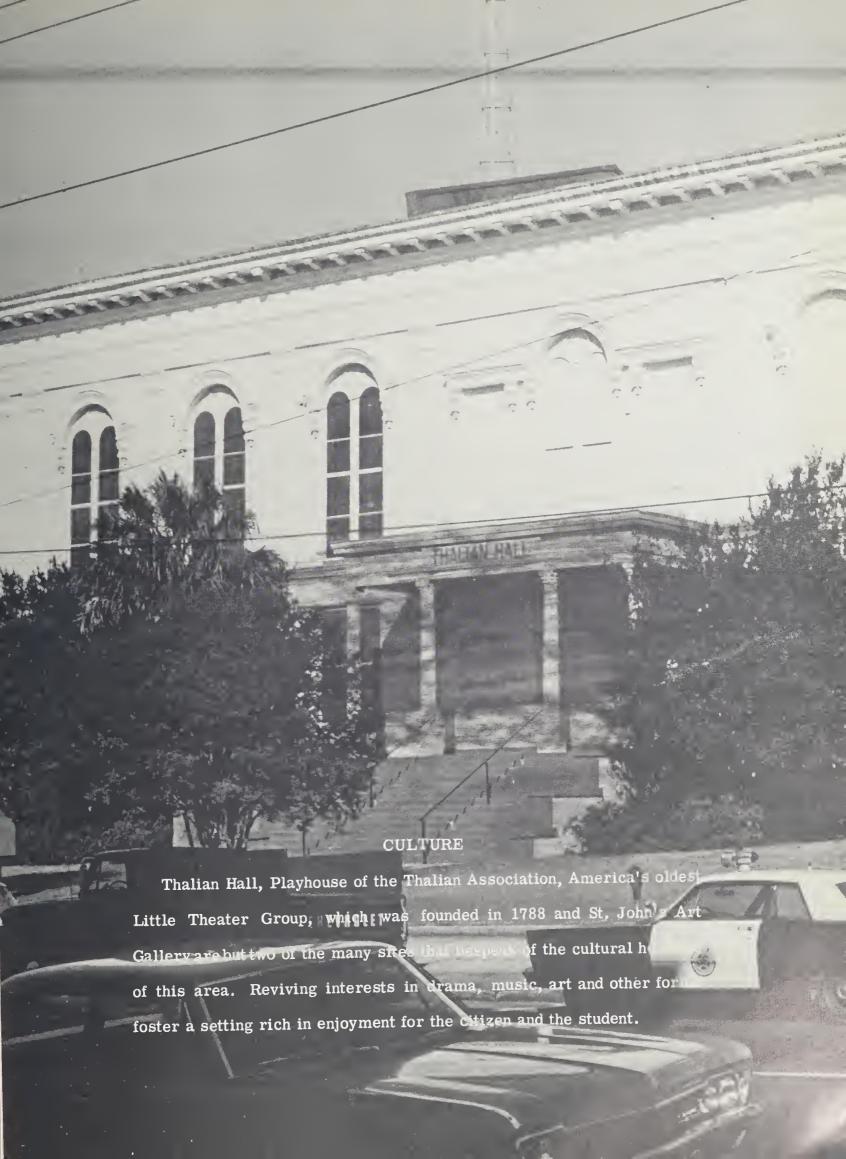

Therefore, in these pages, we will strive to illustrate the ties of a school to a community--bonds that cannot be broken . . .

MR. B. T. WASHINGTON, PRINCIPAL

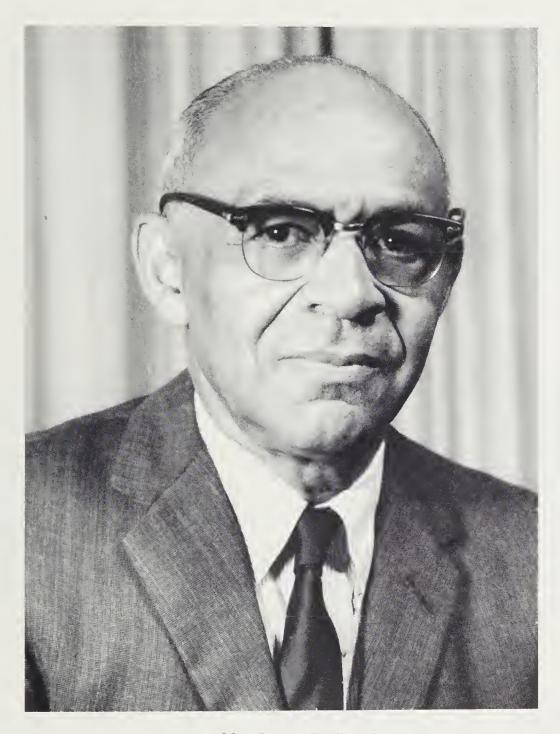

Mr. B. T. Washington

An ardent educator binds the links between students, faculty members, county administrators and community. A dedicated man, our principal strives for perfection.

Seen everywhere anytime, the principal is an integral part of every activity from the classroom work to the sports activities. Athletes are assured by his presence wherever the team goes.

With vision and forethought, he plans and executes the work of this school so that the operation is smooth and successful year round.

MR. JAMES H. HARRIS, JR.—ASSISTANT

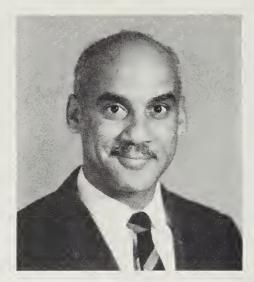

Mr. James H. Harris

Assistant Principal, treasurer, photographer, audio-visual aids director are a few of the titles which Mr. Harris carries. As assistant principal, he is understanding and helpful. As treasurer, he is thorough and dependable. As photographer, he is here, there and everywhere using his camerato record the many school activities for posterity. As director of audio-visual aids, he is trainer of student operators and general repairman for minor difficulties.

Mr. Harris is without a doubt a mechanic, a financier, and a man of vision. He devotes his time and efforts towards the perfection of every project. As guardian of school funds, he is often referred to as a miser who watches over the funds with devotion and sincerity.

FRIENDLY and COOPERATIVE.

With great pride the faculty members, student body, and friends greatly acknowledged the diligent work of Mr. C. M. Haithman. His contributions to the community and school for the past 33 years were truly an asset to all of us. We wish to thank Mr. Haithman for all his services. He will be remembered dearly in all of our hearts. Alice Baldwin is pinning a corsage on Mr. Haithman.

Mr. C. L. Bryant is a well-known personnel to our school. He is truly an asset to the student body. He gives help where help is needed. This is a scene at a football game.

Providing a backbone for the operation of the school, Williston's two experienced secretaries and their secretarial assistants work many long hours at the several clerical tasks assigned to them. Business students enrolled in ICT are given work-aid jobs in the office to further increase their knowledge of office skills and office machines. Above, Mrs. Marjorie Reid receives a telephone message.

Capable, hardworking office staff

Gwendolyn Mallette works at the endless task of mimeographing copies of exams. Requests for this type of work by teachers and students keep Gwendolyn quite busy. She is an advanced business student who got her position as office assistant through the ICT program.

In addition to preparing transcripts, typing examinations, filling admittance slips, receiving telephone calls, and completing the many other assigned tasks, these capable, hardworking ladies must operate the school store and sell school supplies and lunch tickets. Above, veteran secretary, Mrs. Jones works on a school report.

Students at Williston may eat at any of three places during the lunch break; however, the most popular and widely patronized one is the school snack bar or ''lobby'' as it is known around Williston. Manned by paid student assistants, the snack bar serves more than half the members of the student body each day. Mrs. Spain serves as manager for the snack bar.

CURRICULUM

TOWARD BETTER UNDERSTANDING—

Communication skills have served as a spanding link to connect many facets of our lives. The English Department strives so carefully to connect the links of courses and activities designed to develop the skills of reading, writing, listening, and speaking which are of value to all students in their personal, social, and occupational ventures.

English development is regarded as the most important part of our general education. Thus the department stresses accuracy and comprehension in reading, clarity and fluency in speaking; and correctness, and logical arrangement, and effectiveness in writing.

English courses also emphasize the language processes of democracy, such as group thinking and discussion; critical use of mass modes of communication; and the responsibilities which freedom of speech and the press place upon the speaker, writer, listener, and reader. Every effort is made to relate English to a wide range of experiences, curricular as well as personal, in the total school program.

ENGLISH SKILLS ARE THE KEY

Attention is directed to the development of a ready and varied vocabulary and a well-pitched, pleasant speaking voice. Training in the appreciation of literature helps mature the student's emotional life, develop his esthetic sense, and leads to a better understanding of human nature.

ART . . . creativity, form, mood, style

The existence of art in some form antedates history. Study of art in Mr. Boone's classes is almost entirely dependent on emotional expressiveness and the creation of esthetic form. Creativity is the sole objective and is what all study hinges upon.

Music theory is offered as a course to those students planning to major in music. The course covers four topics underlying the study of music theory scales, intervals, key signatures and an introduction to triads. Consumer Music was designed to give students a basic understanding of music--jazz, classic, rock and roll, blues, folk music and others. Socialized study allowed students the opportunity to analyze the different musical styles and to link them to other forms and moods.

Talented, versatile, Angela Mallette performs before the student body on many occasions. Here she does a repeat of her song dance routine which won for her the title of "Miss Industry" in 1965.

The department of social studies offers students a varied opportunity to become acquainted with the world. Courses include World History, Sociology, Economics, United States History, and Government.

World History sets the stage for the many things to follow. It is in this course that we learn about the early happenings in our world and begin to compare the past with the present. Here, too, we gain insight and knowledge to give us a background for literature.

In Sociology, students are concerned with the organization or structure of social groups. There they seek to determine the kinds and causes of variation in social structures, and the processes by which social structure is kept intact or changed. Sociology is the science of the how and why.

Those activities of mankind to which we ascribe the adjective "economic" and whose investigation calls for a science of economics are the consequences of two fundamental laws of nature: one relates to the character of man himself, the other has to do with the natural environment in which man lives. It investigates the conditions and laws affecting the production, distribution, and consumption of wealth.

Principles for everyday—SOCIAL STUDIES

Various methods are used to add to the information given in regular history books used in a course. Students may increase their knowledge by the use of filmstrips, slides, and motion pictures.

SCIENCE . . . hypotheses, experiment, fact

The variety of offerings in science takes care of the student on every level. Physical Science, Biology, Chemistry, Physics, and Advanced Biology are the courses from which students may make selections. With class work and laboratory work, the student has the opportunity to show incentive as he works on the assigned projects. Those who wish may venture alone to study and develop what they feel is important. Some outstanding scientific studies were made by students in Advanced Biology this year. All work was individual and was completed on the student's own time. As has been customary, several students attended a Natural Science and Humanities Symposium at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Ernest Bailey, Jessie Hewett, Robert Williams, and Clarence Cooper made the trip along with Mr. I. E. Moore this year.

MATHEMATICS—a universal language

The mathematics curriculum is designed to contribute to the common and specialized mathematical needs of secondary school students. It has been carefully planned because the need for mathematics increases as society has progressed in complexity. Mathematics places the proper amount of stress on developing: (1) understanding accuracy and facility in the fundamental process of computation, (2) ability to use the problem-solving method in all situations and an understanding students can apply to entirely new areas. The curriculum includes concepts and processes of modern mathematics upon which technical and scientific progress depend.

HEALTH & PHYSICAL ED.

For both student and teacher, health and physical education are two of the most enjoyable and profitable of all school activities. It is profitable because, as our studies have shown, individual health can be improved by pupil effort with the cooperation of school and home.

Phy. Ed. girls go through exercises with Miss R. Sutton, instructor.

It is profitable because health is tremendously valuable in helping boys and girls to achieve whatever worthwhile objectives they may have in life. It is enjoyable because every child can succeed in maintaining or improving his cleanliness, his vigor, his personality, and his physical and mental accomplishment. It is enjoyable because it is personal and cooperative. Those activities in which pupil and teacher work together to find the health problems of the individual so that the class may solve them are stimulating, worthwhile, and friendship building. "There is one lesson at all times and places—one changeless truth on all things writ for boys and girls, women, men, nations, races—Be fit! Be fit! And once again, Be fit!"

Parlez-vous français? And neither do these students, but they are determined to learn the French language with the help of Mrs. G. Dickerson.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES—the

All language classes united to observe Foreign Language Week. These snaps were taken at the Foreign Language Banquet.

Yum . . . yummy. Food is good in any country.

Key to world understanding

Both ancient and modern languages are included in the school curriculum. Latin is the sole representative of the ancient languages; French and Spanish are the modern languages.

As the nations of the world draw closer to each other because of modern transportation and scientific research, it becomes necessary that a great number of students make these courses a part of their curriculum so that they may become more enlightened Americans. This is being done through the use of tape recorders and the one language laboratory available. The study of foreign languages has helped students expand their knowledge of foreign countries—their geography, history, social organization, literature and culture.

Books come alive for the student with the curious mind. Here students engage in a quest for knowledge using the resources of the school library.

Sing out for books—LIBRARY

Today in our great American society there are opportunities unlimited. Whether you reckon progress from horse car to monorail, finger-counting to computer, your future is surely in the library. Progress is built on knowledge and experience and it is the library which preserves and makes available to you the record of that experience.

Any period of rapid change brings stress and strain. This one has also brought uncertainty and peril and all its abundance and technological marvels cannot seem to take them away. But in libraries there are resources to help people understand and meet problems, adjust to changes they cannot prevent, and keep up spirits in times of crisis.

One should read, read, read and keep growing in our great society for the well read man is the well-learned man. He is the leader of tomorrow.

Front. Betty Walker, business student, completes an assignment in bookkeeping as Charlene Franks (behind) and others work on similar studies.

Though limited in scope, the business department aims to meet some of the challenges of the "computer age". The advancement of machines calls for more and better trained operators and students who enroll in this department are urged to meet these challenges. The Business Education Department can justly boast that it has links with many phases of the community through the graduates who are employed in many businesses in the community.

At the Christmas season members of the Speech & Dramatics classes made their debut under the direction of Mrs. L. S. Hankins as the Choral Speech Ensemble.

The Speech and Dramatics Class links an integral chain in the total development of Willistonians seeking to broaden their cultural horizons. Emphasis is placed on attaining self-confidence and perfecting effective use of the body in communicative experiences. Interpretation of varied selections, drama appreciation and play acting are highly recommended.

Hard at work at becoming expert seamstresses are these girls enrolled in Home Economics II.

The Home Economics Department is a definite link in our chain of relationships. With courses designed to meet the home and family life needs of all students, it is a vital part of school-community relations.

The program of this department is quite varied as it is concerned with assisting individuals to carry their respective home responsibilities in relation to food, shelter, clothing, child care, home care of the sick and family relationships.

From a vocational view point, students participate in home projects under the supervision of the teacher. Once the project is selected and parental approval given, the student works on her own until completion. Through these projects rooms have been redecorated, furniture refinished, and many other improvements made. Several students have received state recognition for outstanding projects.

Students in this department have shown a great deal of creativeness and have provided beautiful decorations and delectable food for many school activities.

During each school year, an adult class is sponsored by the department. This class is open to any person who wishes to have assistance in cooking, serving, or home improvement.

Home Economics girls are proud of the work that they do and often display it for other students to see and admire.

It's what is inside that counts to these Auto Mechanics boys.

The department offers a highly diversified selection which includes brick masonry, auto mechanics, electricity, drafting, construction industry, commercial cooking, tailoring and upholstering and industrial cooperative training. This gives both sexes the opportunity not only to learn a trade but, in some instances, to receive occupational training through work experience.

TRADES and

As we advance in the field of technology, it is only fitting that stress be placed upon trades and industry. The basic purpose of this department is to prepare youth for an advantageous entry into a trade or technical occupation.

Carrie Readon practices what she learns in her commercial cooking class in the cafeteria.

INDUSTRY

Good school and community relations have been established through the guiding hands of instructors in this department. Several have used their students for community projects. This has been especially true of the instructor for trowel trades, Mr.C.M. Haithman. He has supervised the construction of many community projects.

Laying bricks is no easy task as these masonry students will attest. These boys were part of the class which built the world's largest Rotary Garden.

Mr. C. M. Haithman thanks the students and faculty for the many gifts he received on his retirement from the school and his class in brick masonry.

He has supervised the construction of many community projects. This year the class has constructed a rotary in Greenfield Park for the local Rotary Club. As he is retiring at the end of this year, this is a climax to 33 years of fruitful work with the young men of this area.

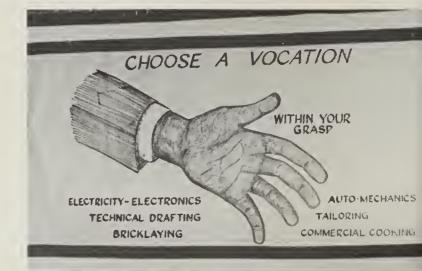

Numbers of students from this department can be found using what they learn as a means of livelihood. With Industrial Cooperative Training as a foundation, they progress to outstanding persons in their fields.

Willistonians are linked with a Student Council which is composed of representatives from each homeroom. This governing body is made up to stimulate the intellectual, social, and moral development of all links in Williston land. The council leads and directs the students, encourages higher ideals of conduct, and stresses understanding and cooperation between the faculty and student body.

Any school needs a strong link of reassurance for its people. Williston is no different. The Student Council has always demonstrated a helping force by cheerfully binding her strong chain of support to "Dear Williston".

The majority of the club members are students who affiliated for the purpose of assisting Library Assistants in fulfilling the following objectives: (1) Sponsor greater interest in libraries and library service, (2) Stimulate reading interest and (3) Improve the library service of the school.

The Tri-Hi-Y Club is a branch of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. in combination. It is an extracurricular club which promotes religious character in both school and community activities.

The organization was organized in 1929 with Miss B. B. Leonard as the founder. In 1950, Miss Leonard was named "State Mother". A memorial is being planned to acknowledge the achievements of this great religious leader

This organization retained the name Hi-Y until 1965 when it became coed and Tri-Hi-Y with Mrs. P. M. Mitchell as assistant advisor to Mr. W. G. Lowe who has worked with the club since 1949.

Annual activities include the club's Thanksgiving Program, food baskets for the unfortunates at Christmas time, Window Washing Day at the Fannie Norwood Memorial Home, and participation in the state convention.

This year the club completed its final donation of a proposed $300 as a gift to the Fannie Norwood Home. Shown making the presentation is club prexy Johnny Walker. MEDICAL CAREERS—limitless opportunity

The practice of modern medicine would be impossible without the tests performed in the medical laboratory everyday. Here, a medical team of pathologists, medical technologists, cytotechnologists, technicians and laboratory assistants work together to track down causes of disease and determine the presence, extent or absence of cancer, diabetes, polio, tuberculosis or other diseases.

This work requires an array of precision instruments: microscopes, centrifuges, electronic counters, automatic analyzers, incubators, autoclaves, spectrophotometers, colorimeters, microtomes, balances capable of weighing to one-thousandth of a gram.

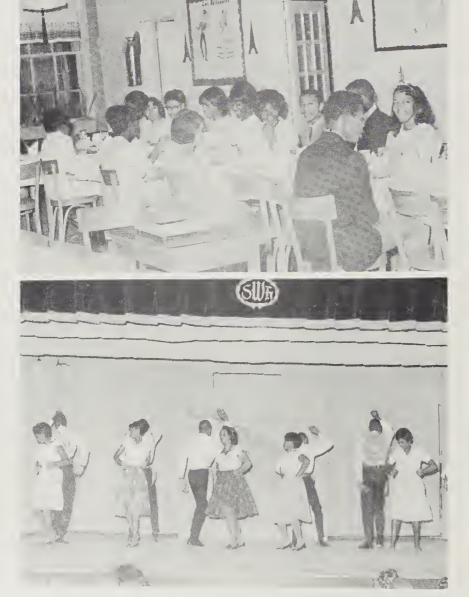

As a result of the growing number and complexity of laboratory tests due to recent advances in medicine, demands for laboratory service have increased tremendously, but the supply of trained personnel has been unable to keep pace.

Medicine offers limitless career opportunities at every level, according to the individual's ability, aptitude and interest. The Medical Careers Club, through its activities, attempts to stimulate interest in the field of medicine and provide for its members experiences that will help them gain insight and knowledge of the area of their interest. This objective is accomplished through tours, films, seminars, speeches, and discussions led by professional people in medicine and related fields.

The Echo Staff promotes the challenge of change through reading and encourages the student body to speak its voice. The staff, through the printing of its newspapers, encourages three major purposes:

- 1. To recognize the creative talent of Willistonians and provide an opportunity for their literary expression.
- 2. To inform students of individual accomplishments of their peers and fellow Willistonians.
- 3. To inform parents and the community through student publication of the highlights of school activities.

Lights! Camera! Action! It's time to sing along with Williston. This was one of the most spectacular years for the 127-member Glee Club. The annual repertoire included public performances by the concert choirs, male and female ensembles, mixed ensemble, and club soloists. Each of these groups won a "Best Singing Award" for the year.

Keeping in spirit with the Christmas season, Glee Club carolers performed at the World's Largest Living Christmas Tree, WWAY's telecast, the Lions' Club, the Optimist Club, and Channel Six T. V.

Spotlighting all activities was the presentation of the dramatic sequence 'God's Trombones' written by James Weldon Johnson. It was received with such overwhelming enthusiasm that two repeat performances were necessary including one in Jacksonville, N. C.

BAND

The Williston Senior High School Band has unlimited activities which include guest performances, public concerts, and special concerts during the school year for the students, especially the Annual Christmas Concert presented in combination with the Glee Club.

These highstepping misses are a vital part of Williston's Marching Band. The Majorettes perform along with the band on many occasions, including the Azalea Festival Parade, Christmas Parade, and the Homecoming Game.

President McKellar and Mrs. Avery Jones, Secretary

One of the organizations most interested in the welfare of the school and the students is the Parent-Teacher Association. This group, which meets at the close of each six weeks period, has as its goal better schools for all children.

Under the leadership of its president, Mr. James McKellar, the P. T. A. this year formed a Better Schools Committee. With Mrs. L. W. Upperman as chairman, the committee met with the Board of Education to present a list of the school's needs.

As an active part of the county, state, and national organizations, the Williston High School Parent-Teacher Association is represented at all meetings. It is there that PTAs exchange ideas and gain insight into the latest procedure.

ANNUAL STAFF

The band's number was a walloping success.

Confusion, deadlines, pictures, coupled with excitement, clamor, more photos and copy, confusion—this is the staff of the 1966 Willistonian at work. Ragged ideas and soaring hopes slowly develop into tangible layouts, themes and designs as the yearbook takes shape. Students spend many hours laboring to produce a publication which will reflect the worth of the individual and of the school.

Retired educator, Mrs. Alice G. Lofton was honored by both the Student Council and the Class of '46. Here she addresses students of school to which she gave thirty-three years of devoted service.

Head Coach, E. A. Corbin awards trophy for athlete with highest academic average to John Temoney, football and baseball varsity man-

C. M. Haithman, a veteran of thirty-three years with the Williston family expresses his appreciation to the students who gave portrait on right to school in his honor. Mr. Haithman ended his career this year.

"CHIEF" calls it quits . . .

A proud man, Mr. C. M. Haithman, affectionately known as "Chief", beams as he and his wife (left) and family friend, Miss Crowley look on.

Mr. W. D. Bryant and members of VICA (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America) helped to organize the program given as a tribute to Mr. Haithman's long service.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT DAY

Students take over government

City Council holds a live session in Williston's auditorium. Council members, John Symmes, L. M. Cromartie, James Batuyios, and Mayor Allsbrook were present. Others present were City Manager Brandon, City Attorney Cicero Yow, and City Clerk Mrs. Mary Southerland.

NAT'L EDUCATION WEEK

Student bulletin board displays are expressive of many things: interest in a particular subject, art ability, creativeness, valuable lessons. Increasing daily in popularity at Williston, the creation of beautiful and meaningful bulletin boards is fast becoming an outlet of student expression.

Bulletins tell a story for all...

Members of the "Tiger" Gridiron from Left to Right. ROW 1: K. Noble, J. Bell, R. McFee, A. McCloud, D. Pelham, C. Johnson, C. McAllister. ROW 2: O. Pierce, J. Riley, B. King, W. Smith, J. Greene, H. James, A. Southerland. ROW 3: K. Blue, S. Jackson, P. Taylor, F. Johnson, K. Reid, T. Damon, E. Toney. ROW 4: N. Toney, C. Pridgen, J. Wheeler, W. Gaymon, R. Jenkins, H. Mallette, J. McAllister, Coach R. O. Hawkins. ROW 5: Coach E. A. Corbin, J. Temoney, D. Sparrow, J. Bryant, C. White, A. Rogers, R. Temoney, E. McCrimmon.

Although Tiger action this year was a bit below par for usual season play, it was a fine team. Through the efforts of Coaches Corbin and Hawkins, the boys learned to play the game fairly, and to lose with pride when the game was well played. The Tigers earned the respect of schools across the state for their efforts and spirit.

Tiger teammates D. Pelham and S. Pollock shake hands with gridders from C. M. Eppes High before going into play.

Richard "Butch" McFee, middle line-backer and recipient of many "Tiger Tail" awards represented Williston on the Eastern All-Star team this year. McFee was also cocaptain of the team. Other members of the team nominated to the All-Star roster were A. McCloud, J. McAllister, C. McAllister and O. Pierce.

BASKETBALL VARSITY TEAM

Our team took the Runner-Up slot in the District Championship this year and traveled to Greensboro, N. C. for the State Championship which we were eliminated 67 to 63 by West Charlotte High.

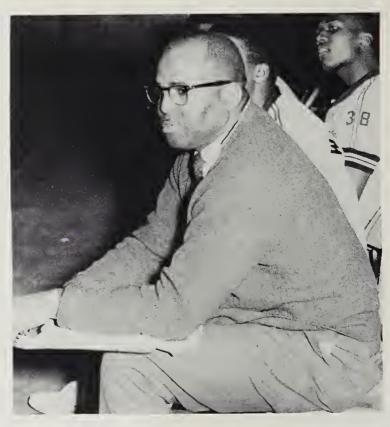

Coach Corbin, who was born in Buena Vista, Cuba, received his Bachelor of Science Degree from Boston University and his Certified Advanced Graduate Work toward his Master's Degree also from the same university. Prior to coming to Williston in 1949, he coached at Saint Paul's Polytechnic College. He has coached such famed athletes as Meadowlark Lemon and Sam Bowens, all Williston products.

These J. V. players will really be tops come next year.

J. V. Coach Hawkins seems calmly assured of victory for his "Baby Tigers".

The Tiger sluggers went into championship play with an unmarred record of eleven straight wins, but were unable to capture the Eastern title.

Track has taken on renewed vitality since Coach R. D. Hawkins came to Williston three years ago. Because of his drive and push, the Williston team has once again become one of status across the state. Defending State Champions in this year's state meet, the ''Tigers'' were unable to hold on to the state crown, but did manage to capture the district title. Williston took third place honors in the state meet. With the continued assistance of Coach Hawkins and his volunteer assistant, Mr. James Clemmons, the Williston team is sure to go far.

CLASSES

The sophomore is like a young flower, just beginning to bloom into society. He is like a young fawn learning to walk. The goals that we have reached are yours to gain. We, the Senior Class of 1966, are proud to own our younger generation because they have cooperated with us in every possible way. The ties that have bound us together have become a part of us which will never be forgotten. The process of making today a good foundation for tomorrow sometimes obscures the past, but to look at yesterday may give guidance to today and may give better direction to tomorrow. The cream of our high school days remains yet to be skimmed by the unseen fates that await us somewhere in the future. We know not how we shall judge you, but we have thrust forth our purest hand.

A good foundation is the assurance of a better tomorrow. We can depend upon our sophomore class to carry the torch of success in the near future. There is true leadership ability to be found among the members of the class. As they reach toward the stars of success, they will share and have shared many pleasures with us in our many activities. Several accomplishments of the school year would have been impossible if we had not had the participation of the sophomore class.

As we draw closer to that goal to which we all aspire, we congratulate you for the achievements of your class. May all your efforts continue to be crowned with success to enable you to replace the coveted juniors and graduating seniors.

COMMEZCEMEZT

"The Strength of A Chain--

A Combination of Links"

L. to R., Carolyn Jacobs, Ronald Franks, Leroy Holden, Sadie Davis appearing in annual senior play, "That Brewster Boy".

Senior Play, "That Brewster

M. Sheridan relaxes during scene in Senior Class Play as Carolyn Jacobs has a few words with Ronald Franks.

Boy" was wild success . . .

Addressing the 277 seniors for the annual baccalaureate sermon was the Rev. O. A. Hester, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist Church. The services are designed to give spiritual guidance to the graduates.

BACCALAUREATE

Here come the gypsies! LEFT TO RIGHT: B. Owens, R. Geyer, D. Scott, B. Kinsey, A. Coston, G. Rice, J. Pickett, B. Walker, M. Kinsey, J. Bowden, C. Pearson.

Gypsy woman, gypsy woman...

COMMENCEMENT "UNITY—THE

Class Motto: "The Strength of a Chain--

A Combination of Links"

Class Colors: Navy and Yellow

Class Flower: Yellow Rose

Kenneth Grady's subject was "School--A Preparation for Togetherness".

EXERCISES COMMON LINK''

The Valedictorian, Millicent Brown, delivers the farewell as she tells the audience about "World--International Understanding".
